Learning Checkpoint 6: Researching Native Title Applications in your State/Territory

The National Native Title Tribunal website (http://www.nntt.gov.au) provides a summary of the details of all native title applications in each state and territory in a section of their website called ‘Snapshot’.

Visit the site and research the status of native title applications in your State or Territory to help answer the following questions.

1. How many communities have lodged applications?

2. How many applications have been finalised?

3. How many applications have been withdrawn?

4. How many applications are in mediation?

5. What is the average length of time it has taken for an application to be finalised?
6. Write three statements about the status of native title applications in your State/Territory as a result of this survey.
